What are Cookies?

Cookies are small data files that can automatically be saved to, or read from, your device upon visiting a website (including PC, tablet or smartphone). This is done via the web browser on the device. The information a cookie obtains on your use of the website can be transferred to the secured servers of De Monchy & Röben Tax Advice or that of a third party. Cookies are used on our website to:

- enable the functionality of the website, as well as protect the website (technical or functional cookies);
- analyse usage of the website and consequently improve the website (analytical cookies);
- enable our website to be shared on social media (social media cookies).

1.1 TECHNICAL AND FUNCTIONAL COOKIES

The primary purpose of cookies is to save time and effort. For example, when you adjust a web page to your personal preferences, or when navigating a website, the chosen settings and preferences will be saved for future use through cookies. When revisiting the website at a later time, the information entered previously can be recalled by the cookies, allowing you to use the website's functionalities according to your set preferences.

1.2 ANALYTICAL COOKIES

Additionally, this website also makes use of cookies for keeping track of statistics, providing insight into the usage of our website as well as the efficacy of our campaigns. We utilize the following analytical cookies:

1.3 SOCIAL MEDIA COOKIES

In order to enable you to share our information on this website on various social media channels, we make use of the following cookies: Facebook Inc., LinkedIn and Twitter Inc. plug-ins.
